President of Princeton Predicts Early Democratic Success.

OPPORTUNITY FOR PARTY

Must Eschew All Lower Personal Objects of Politics.

New York, March 25.—The political tide is now turning Democratic, and the day when the Democratic party must take charge of this country's affairs is almost at hand, were declarations made by Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, in a speech at the Democratic dinner in Elizabeth, N. J., to-night. Mr. Wilson outlined a course of action which he said Democrats should give the country to meet the present economic problems. After stating that, he thinks "it is possible to

"In the first place, we should wish not merely to curb the trusts, and above all, we should not wish to regulate them in such a way as will make them either partners or creatures of the government itself.

We should wish to share their whole attention and responsibility with the general interest.

"Our regulations of public interest must be legal regulation, and not direct management."

"In the second place, it is especially our duty, so soon as we get the opportunity, to make the law of the land the law of patronage, the business of granting favors and privileges, of arranging the laws of the land to the advantage of a group of men may make large profits out of their business and draw it back to the function of safeguarding the interests of a group of men. The rights which make much so much for the prosperity, which enables small groups of individuals to individually make large profits out of the general stimulation, a universal opportunity for enrichment and justice." an thinking, of course, of the law of patronage."

A Policy of Patronage.

He then declared that the policy of protection of the Roosevelt administration, by Congress, seemed to be a policy of protection and become a policy of patronage.

"We are told to congratulate the present extraordinarily high prices of commodities is due not to the tariff but to the fact that we are not in touch with the people, with the daily demands, and that this is particularly so with regard to the things we eat and have daily need of."

"The truth is, the truth is that the meat trust has been able to control the meat market."

"We have been driven out of the cattle-raising business because it was unprofitable."

Tasewell, Va., March 29.—Arthur Shuman and Martin Lohr, the names given by a two-day-old boy shot and wounded little Victoria Kinder in Thompson Valley last night, were lodged in jail safely early this morning. It developed that Lohr did the shooting. He developed that he was shooting at a rabbit, and the ball glanced and struck the child. The men gave their addresses as North Carolina.

Will Be Tried To-Day.

(Special To The Times Dispatch.)

Daniels, Va., March 29.—The trial of James Neel and John Thornton, the two Daniels boys, charged with making spurious Pillsbury flour, will begin this morning at 10 o'clock. The trial is to-morrow before the Circuit Court of Halifax county, Judge Barkard presiding.

SKIN RASH FOR ECZEMA

Water Frequently Aggravates Skin Troubles.

In certain inland European districts where water is seldom used for bathing purposes, the incidence of skin affections, particularly of eczema, is very low. The local authorities now agree that soap and water are to be avoided in the treatment of eczema when present in the scalp or on the feet, as water is an irritant, when it is usually the cause of the disease, at least aggravates it. For therefore, that the supply is short compared with the vast demand, but it has been made short by the operating of a trust unquestionably fostered by the legislation of the government.

Reform for Economy.

"In the third place, it is one of the chief duties of the Democratic party to initiate such reform, alike in local and in Federal government, as will secure economy, responsibility and honesty."

"And, finally, it seems to me that it is the duty of the Democratic party to challenge the people to depend upon themselves rather than upon fostering powers lodged in groups or individuals."

"If our program should be a general revival of popular politics, of common counsel, of responsible leadership, we must appeal to the people as a whole, and not to lower personal objects of politics. It is a case of mass as well as a case of may; a case of necessity as well as a case of privilege. A new day has come. Men and measures are being scrutinized as never before. For myself, I veritably believe that we are upon the eve of a new era of political liberty, when more literally and truly than ever before we can realize the ideals of popular government and of individual privilege."

CHILD CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Father Finds Bruised Remains of Little Son for Whom He Was Searching.

Norfolk, Va., March 29.—Searching for his missing son, a father here today found the crushed remains of a little child who had been run over by a street car.

of its mother and other relatives, and who was presumably innocently playing with some of its little mates of the neighborhood, W. B. Pope, of 110 South Maithly Avenue, found the little fellow

John Willard Pope—lying upon the ground in the Etheridge lumber yard late yesterday afternoon, the bruised little body having been recovered from a mass of timbers by Thomas Walker and one or two others.

Mr. Pope is a shipfitter, employed at the navy yard. When he went home yesterday evening about 5:30 o'clock, he was met at the Brambleton car by a sister-in-law, who told him his little four-year-old son had strayed away from home, and was perhaps somewhere in the neighborhood. It seems that Mrs. Pope, the mother, bathed and dressed the little fellow yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, and then went to prepare the evening's meal. Shortly afterwards the boy was missing, and a search commenced. When he arrived home Mr. Pope walked all over the neighborhood.

In the meantime the little boys reported they had seen a child enter the lumber yard. When Mr. Pope reached Etheridge's yard Mr. Walker had rescued the body. A half dozen or more heavy pieces of timber had fallen on the child. Presumably he had attempted to crawl upon the timber when the accident occurred. The child's skull was crushed, and death is supposed to have been instantaneous.
